

Dear Bruno

Discover the key insights from the Henley Private Wealth Migration Report 2026. The latest edition of this annual report introduces the Global Wealth Mobility Framework, revealing how tax, policy, geopolitics, and international access are reshaping the competition to attract millionaires on the move.

According to the report, Singapore, Italy, Switzerland, Greece, Hong Kong, and New Zealand are emerging as some of the most attractive destinations for internationally mobile wealth in 2026, while the United Kingdom, Germany, France, Norway, and South Korea are facing growing competitiveness pressures as tax reforms, fiscal uncertainty, and policy shifts prompt wealthy individuals and families to reassess their options.

With a pioneering analytical model developed by Henley & Partners to assess the structural competitiveness of jurisdictions in the competition for internationally mobile wealth, the report identifies a growing shift away from traditional relocation planning as the world's wealthiest increasingly build 'sovereign portfolios' of residence rights, citizenships, investments, and business interests across multiple jurisdictions.

Where Wealth Is Moving in 2026 — and Why

For much of the past century, governments could largely treat their wealthiest residents as a relatively fixed asset — rooted by businesses, family ties, and limited international mobility. That assumption is becoming increasingly outdated, says Dr. Juerg Steffen, Chief Executive Officer at Henley & Partners.

Read more —

Global Wealth Mobility Leaders 2026

Explore the jurisdictions best positioned to attract globally mobile wealth, based on the Global Wealth Mobility Framework's assessment of competitiveness, investor access, institutional quality, market relevance, resilience, and international optionality.

Read more —

Wealth Mobility Markets to Watch 2026

See the jurisdictions where changes in policy, taxation, regulation, geopolitics, or broader market conditions are influencing wealth mobility dynamics and creating pressure on long-term competitiveness according to the Global Wealth Mobility Framework. These markets are experiencing developments that may affect their attractiveness to globally mobile wealth.

Read more —

How Governments Win Global Wealth

Philippe Amarante, Managing Partner and Head of Government Advisory at Henley & Partners, looks at how wealth mobility in 2026 is no longer simply a by-product of lifestyle preferences, business opportunities, or economic growth. It is increasingly shaped by deliberate policy choices as governments compete to attract and retain internationally mobile wealth.

Read more —

UK Wealth Migration: The Canary in the Mine

According to Douglas McWilliams, Founder at the Centre for Economics and Business Research, high-net-worth migration is the canary in the coal mine for economic policy. If wealthy people are leaving a country en masse, you can be reasonably sure that the country's economic policy isn't working.

Read more —

The USA: Dual Dynamics in Wealth Mobility

Basil Mohr-Elzeki, Managing Partner and Head of Private Clients Americas at Henley & Partners, explores wealth mobility in the US. Home to more millionaires than any country on earth, it attracts more of the world's capital than any rival. Its wealthy are also the most active in acquiring residence and citizenship rights abroad.

Read more —

The Gulf Wealth Boom: Opportunity and Risk

The story of the Gulf's emergence as one of the world's most attractive destinations for wealth migration has become familiar, says Justin Alexander, Director at Khalij Economics, but it is natural to wonder whether the US–Iran war will undermine and reverse these trends.

Read more —

Strategic Jurisdictions for Global Mobility and Access

Selected residence and citizenship pathways can play an important role in sovereign portfolio construction for globally mobile individuals. The Global Wealth Mobility Framework highlights jurisdictions which provide meaningful advantages within broader wealth mobility strategies.

Read more —

20th Global Citizenship Conference

23–25 November 2026, The Dolder Hotel, Zurich

Henley & Partners is delighted to host its 20th anniversary Global Citizenship Conference in Zurich.

This flagship event will be the final stop of our 2026 Global Citizenship Event Series, bringing together leading voices and strategic visionaries shaping the future of private wealth and global mobility, and redefining international opportunity.

BOOK NOW

Talk to the Experts

To find out more about expanding your global footprint, and creating a more secure future for yourself and your family, please get in touch with our specialist private client advisors.

REQUEST A CALL BACK

With over 25 years' experience and a global reach of over 70 offices, Henley & Partners is best placed to advise you on your residence and citizenship options.

The Firm of Global Citizens®

Please note that you have received this message as part of Henley & Partners marketing communication to which you have previously consented. At Henley & Partners we respect your privacy. Any personal data provided to us is stored in a secure environment.

Please read our Privacy Policy for more information on how we process personal data. If you do not want to receive any further marketing communication from us please click here to unsubscribe. Henley & Partners Group Holdings Ltd. is registered at Pendergardens Business Tower, St. Andrews Road, St. Julian's, STJ 9023, Malta, European Union.

Web Version