INVESTMENT MIGRATION FORUM 2026

About the Forum

Welcome to Paris – a city that has given the world ideas, revolutions, and the vocabulary of modern citizenship. It is a privilege to gather here to reflect on the future of global mobility, responsible investment, and the movement of people in an era defined by uncertainty and opportunity. This year's Forum is framed around three words at the heart of the French Republic: Liberté, Égalité, Fraternité. We adopt this motto not as a slogan, but as a respectful framework and an invitation to ground our discussions in principles that transcend borders and politics, helping guide how investment migration evolves, competes, collaborates, and connects nations.

Closing Event along the River Seine €60,000

Positioned as a principal partner of the Investment Migration Forum 2026, you are invited to co-host the Forum's closing evening in a setting that reflects both distinction and cultural significance. This year, the closing event will take place aboard a private cruise along the River Seine, on the same vessel that hosted the French Olympic team during the opening ceremony of the Paris Games.

The evening will unfold as a curated journey through the heart of Paris, offering guests uninterrupted views of the city's most iconic landmarks. The cruise will be accompanied by refined live French performances and an elevated culinary experience, designed to encourage relaxed yet meaningful interaction among all participants.

As the Forum's closing moment, this stand-up reception represents a natural transition from formal discussion to enduring connection. The evening will conclude at port with dancing, providing a final opportunity for delegates to engage in an atmosphere that is both celebratory and memorable.

The Closing Evening Partner will benefit from prominent recognition throughout the evening, including the opportunity to deliver a welcome address, positioning your organisation at the centre of the Forum's final gathering.

The Programme

As we bring the Forum to Paris, a city synonymous with political ideas and global influence, it felt natural and respectful to draw on values that have shaped modern citizenship, these principles offer a powerful lens through which to examine the future of Investment Migration—one grounded in responsibility, integrity, and international cooperation.

LIBERTÉ

Freedom of movement is one of the defining aspirations of the 21st century. Talent moves. Capital moves. Ideas move. And people, increasingly, seek the ability to live, work, and contribute where they feel they can flourish.

Investment migration is not about selling access; it is about expanding horizons — enabling individuals to build global lives, and enabling states to attract the people and capital that fuel development.

But freedom must always be accompanied by responsibility: transparent frameworks, rigorous due diligence, and strong governance.

Today we explore how to balance aspiration with accountability.

ÉGALITÉ

The word carries enormous weight in France, shaped by the long struggle for justice, for rights, and for dignity under the law. In our sector, equality has a very specific expression: fair, predictable, rules-based treatment for applicants, service providers, and states.

We will look at the standards that ensure integrity in application processes...

At the need for consistent regulatory environments...

At the importance of preventing discrimination and ensuring that investment migration is not a privilege reserved for the few, but a tool that benefits societies as a whole.

True equality requires systems we can trust. And trust is the foundation of everything we do.

FRATERNITÉ

No country succeeds alone. No economy grows alone. And no individual thrives alone.

Fraternité reminds us that investment migration is ultimately about connection: connecting investors to the communities they join, connecting states to new sources of innovation and growth, and connecting people across cultures, languages, and continents.

On our final day, we explore how to build that sense of shared purpose — how to ensure that those who invest also integrate, participate, and contribute meaningfully to the societies they become part of.

A Forum unlike any we've hosted before.
The future of mobility
has a new stage.
Paris awaits.
